Message from the President

Mary Chesney

Welcome to a new decade. Funny how when you are young time seems to move soooooo slowly. At this stage in life the movement of time is just the opposite, it's on overdrive. Where did the second decade of the new century go? I keep making plans, but the future seems to zip right past me before I even get started.

One item that should be on all our to do lists is be thoughtful about who we support among the candidates running for national office this election year. AAUW is apolitical meaning we do not take a stance on either political party but rather focus on issues that are of importance to women and girls. If enough of us demand our legislators pass legislation to protect women and girls from harassment, unequal pay, or attacks on our right to choose how we manage our reproductive health, we can make a difference, get changes made, and protections put in place. I know many of us have a strong dislike for politics. The haggling, rudeness and sometimes unprofessional behavior can be irksome but letting these kinds of behaviors keep us from being involved make us complicit in the continuance of this activity. I tell my students that although you entered the profession of nursing to heal people, you need to pay attention to policy. Policy drives the health of the public and we are all responsible to act. If we don't, nothing will change.

In a few weeks, you have the opportunity to act at the state level by participating in the annual AAUW Lobby Day in Olympia on Monday, January 27. As of the time of this writing, Washington State AAUW has announced that Steve Breaux of Planned Parenthood will speak "on a bill to provide comprehensive, scientifically accurate, and age appropriate sex education in Washington's public schools. The proposed curriculum will include information about the importance of consent in sexual encounters." Please visit <https://aauw-wa.aauw.net/2019/09/07/2020-lobby-day-jan-27/> paragraph 3. The web site advises other speakers may be scheduled depending on proposed legislation. Considering how rarely constituents contact their legislators, your presence can make a difference on how your elected representative votes. Consider carpooling to Olympia and go the night before. It could be fun by making it a girl's night out! If you decide to go, let our President-elect, Judy Prince, know. She will be attending and is planning on driving to Olympia on Sunday.

January 9th: Janelle Mastain, Flawless

Carol Kayler

Do you ever wonder what kind of jobs young women in STEM will get after college? The tech world is changing fast and Janelle Mastain from Flawless Recruit will be giving us a presentation on the career opportunities that are available to women who pursue degrees in STEM. Janelle was a keynote speaker at the Seattle Women in Tech Conference this past August. This is sure to be a fascinating program, is open to the public, and is a Shape the Future event.

Bring a friend or a parent of a teenager on Thursday, January 9. Social Half Hour begins at 12:30 p.m. at the Camano Library.

Reduced Dues for Joining at January Meeting

Martha Huyler

Individuals joining our branch at our January 9 meeting get 50 percent off national dues! Join at the meeting and pay $63.50 instead of the usual $93 ($29.50 for national, $10 for state and $24 for branch).

The Shape the Future membership campaign is a recruitment tool for current members to offer a discounted rate to prospective members. With this campaign, new members pay just 50 percent of the national dues rate when they join AAUW at a public event. Branches also earn one free national membership to give away for every two newly recruited members, with a maximum of three free memberships annually.

Hope to see you and a guest at the January 9 meeting!

Stanwood Camano Give on Giving Tuesday

Terry Benson

The Stanwood-Camano Give project administered by SCAF (Stanwood Camano Area Foundation) on Giving Tuesday was a great success. Our branch project "Science and Technology Camp for Girls" brought in donations totaling $1670. Although our goal was $1900 this was a great response so close to our October Purses with Purpose. Thank you so much for those who donated.

Art Docent Program & Crayola Watercolors

Mary Chesney

Marianne McGarry-Bloom started a monthly art education program for 80 first graders at Stanwood Elementary School and reported the need for quality watercolors for the students. Response to this call was spectacular and 83 sets of Crayola 8 color watercolors were collected at our Holiday Luncheon.

The need remains so if you haven't donated a set yet please bring to the January 9 meeting or give to a friend to bring for you.

The Crayola "8 color" sets are not expensive. The smallest number of sets available on Amazon is 2 for $6. Sets are also available for as little as $2.75 (bulk pricing for 24 sets on Amazon).

Tech Trek Report

Judy Prince

We are at the beginning of Tech Trek candidate selection. The four middle schools (two in Stanwood Camano district and two in Arlington district) have received their information and nominating forms. Nominations are due February 1, 2020.

Currently, I am putting together the review committee to evaluate the applications and essays then interview each girl and her parents. I could definitely use some help. Perhaps you have had the fun of talking to middle school girls in the past. Would you like to do that again?

Mary Chesney and I are looking forward to an even response from the four schools and the excitement of making our selections from the nominations.

Please contact me if you would like to help; no experience necessary.

Branch Beginnings: The Adventurous Marjorie Duryee

Carolyn Spector

Our branch of AAUW was formed in Arlington in 1936 by a group of 16 women. Their names are included in several historical documents about our branch, which are maintained at the Washington State Archives in Bellingham. This is one of a series of articles profiling the women who founded our chapter.

One of our original founding members, Marjorie Ann Duryee was born in Everett in 1913. Educated at Mills College in California and the University of Washington, Marjorie taught English, World History and Physical Education at Arlington High School from 1935 to 1937. It wasn't long before she left for Europe, studying at the Institute of International Studies in Geneva and traveling throughout Europe. Worried about the rise of Hitler, she returned to the U.S. in October 1938.

The purchase of her first camera in 1937 inspired her to become a photographer; in later years, she won numerous awards at regional and national shows. During WW II she worked as a journalist for the American Red Cross; in 1944 she became editor of the Red Cross magazine Boomerang. During these years, she lived in the Netherlands East Indies, New Guinea, Manila and Tokyo. When military security prohibited photographs, she made sketches of the places she visited.

After the war, she became interested in painting and moved to New York City where she enrolled in the Art Students League. In the 1950's she added writing to her artistic repertoire, while continuing to pursue photography and painting. With the help of her brother and sister-in-law, Marjorie built a 20' x 30' cabin at Priest Point, where she lived for many years. This was no easy feat: all materials had to be trucked in, and the three together poured the foundation, raised the walls, installed the roof and finished the interior. It became a quiet retreat between her travels, with windows overlooking Possession Sound and few neighbors.

When she decided to return to Europe, instead of flying or sailing on a passenger ship, she went to the docks in Everett and secured passage on a freighter headed for Spain via the Panama Canal. After doing so, she went home and packed for the trip, and was on board the freighter that night. During the nearly one year she spent in Spain, Marjorie wrote a series of travel articles for the Everett Herald.

Marjorie continued to write, paint and take photographs for the rest of her life. In 1967 she was featured in a one-woman show at the Monroe Fair. In the late 1970's she traveled to Europe again, staying in Oxford and London for a year. She is one of the women profiled in The Snohomish County Women's Legacy Project. Marjorie died in 1992 of complications from Alzheimer's disease and is buried at Evergreen Cemetery in Everett.

Joint State AAUW Regional Meeting in Vancouver

Reserve April 17-19, 2020 on your calendar. This will be a record breaking important regional meeting inviting AAUW'ers from Idaho, Alaska, and Hawaii. We are also inviting AAUW members from across the US. The program team is already working on the events. At the Heathman Lodge.

We will recognize the 100th anniversary of women's suffrage at Saturday's dinner. Bring your suffrage white to wear that evening. Judith Entwistle, Bellingham branch, has a terrific outfit that includes purple and gold as well as white. There will also be a program focused on women's history. Other speakers are still being negotiated.

Correction to Robin Hanks' interview in December 2019 issue: It was Robin's husband, Richard, who went back to UCR while acting as Mr. Mom and got his B.A. and then went on to get his M.A. and PhD and worked as a journalist, archivist and professor. Robin stayed with Metropolitan Water District until she retired.

My apologies for the error. ~georgi

WHAT: The Island of the Sea Women by Lisa See

WHEN: Monday, January 6, 2020, 2:00 p.m.

WHERE: Jackie DeFazio's Home

The Island of Sea Women is an epoch set over many decades, beginning during a period of Japanese colonialism in the 1930s and 1940s, followed by World War II, the Korean War and its aftermath, through the era of cell phones and wet suits for the women divers. This beautiful, thoughtful novel illuminates a world turned upside down, one where the women are in charge, engaging in dangerous physical work, and the men take care of the children. A classic Lisa See story--one of women's friendships and the larger forces that shape them--The Island of Sea Women introduces readers to the fierce and unforgettable female divers of Jeju Island and the dramatic history that shaped their lives"- Provided by publisher.

WHAT: Becoming by Michelle Obama

WHEN: Monday, February 3, 2020, 2:00 p.m.

WHERE: Marianne McGarry-Bloom's Home

In a life filled with meaning and accomplishment, Michelle Obama has emerged as one of the most iconic and compelling women of our era. Michelle Obama describes the early years of her marriage as she struggles to balance her work and family with her husband's fast-moving political career. She takes us inside their private debate over whether he should make a run for the presidency and her subsequent role as a popular but oft-criticized figure during his campaign. [This book] takes us through modest Iowa kitchens and ballrooms at Buckingham Palace, through moments of heart-stopping grief and profound resilience, bringing us deep into the soul of a singular, groundbreaking figure in history as she strives to live authentically, marshaling her personal strength and voice in service of a set of higher ideals. In telling her story with honesty and boldness, she issues a challenge to the rest of us: Who are we and who do we want to become?--Dust jacket.

WHAT: Little Fires Everywhere by Celeste Ng

WHEN: Monday, March 2, 2020, 2:00 p.m.

WHERE: (To be determined)

In Shaker Heights, a placid, progressive suburb of Cleveland, everything is planned - from the layout of the winding roads, to the colors of the houses, to the successful lives its residents will go on to lead. And no one embodies this spirit more than Elena Richardson, whose guiding principle is playing by the rules. Enter Mia Warren - an enigmatic artist and single mother - who arrives in this idyllic bubble with her teenaged daughter Pearl, and rents a house from the Richardson's. Soon Mia and Pearl become more than tenants: all four Richardson children are drawn to the mother-daughter pair. But Mia carries with her a mysterious past and a disregard for the status quo that threatens to upend this carefully ordered community. Little Fires Everywhere explores the weight of secrets, the nature of art and identity, and the ferocious pull of motherhood - and the danger of believing that following the rules can avert disaster--Provided by Publisher

Central Sound Regional Science & Engineering Fair Needs Judges

Gary Foss

I am a retired Boeing engineer, science education activist, and charter volunteer for the Central Sound Regional Science & Engineering Fair (CSRSEF). Since we organized it in 2010, the Fair has grown in size by 1100% to become the largest regional high school science fair in Washington. It has showcased the work of over a thousand students from around the Puget Sound area. About half of these students are young women. Our research shows that a large percentage of them go on to science and engineering study and eventual careers.

Shown in the photo above are the students who won awards at our fair this year. If our research of previous years is an indication, about 40% of these students will be admitted to the University of Washington majoring in science or engineering. Some of them will leverage their science fair success into admission at Stanford, MIT, Harvard, Princeton, Johns Hopkins, etc. One girl in this picture was accepted to MIT, Caltech, and UW, but chose to go to Harvard, majoring in computer science.

The Fair is open to all high school students from King and Snohomish County attending public, private, or homeschool. It provides an incentive for students who've performed scientific research or engineering design to present and discuss their work with professionals from their field of study. This lets them experience firsthand the professional practices of working scientists and engineers, and for many, it's a life changing event.

In 2019 the Fair was attended by 273 students, a staff of 15 volunteers, and over 100 judges. In 2020, the fair will no longer be sponsored by Bellevue College. To continue the state's largest regional science fair for high school, we have formed a non-profit foundation to raise funds. We intend to continue holding it at Bellevue College, but will have to pay for the expenses in the future.

We hope you can help us in two ways. We need funding, and we need judges. We are fortunate this year that Starbucks Coffee Company has generously offered to cover half of our expenses. The other half we are trying to raise from other local companies and organizations. A sponsorship in the range of $1000 to $5000 will help us continue an event that has attracted hundreds of girls to STEM careers. We credit sponsors with their logos at the fair and on our website and thank them in the printed program and news releases.

We are also looking for volunteer judges for the next fair on Saturday, March 14, 2020. Judges have the opportunity to meet some talented students who have a passion for science. They're eager to share their work with experts and hope to receive encouragement. For some students, this is their first contact with a science or engineering professional. Part of the judge's role at the Science Fair is to be an ambassador for the profession, encouraging these students to become the STEM leaders of tomorrow.

Students overwhelmingly say that interactions they have with the judges are the best part of the Fair experience. Likewise, judges find their discussions with these outstanding students to be a positive and uplifting experience. One female student wrote to us this year: "I was a participant in the 2017 CSRSEF competition....it set me up for my future in ways I never could have imagined....helped me make it into the University of Washington.....gained life skills like self-confidence and leadership....because it showed me how to network and speak with professionals, I was able to get a couple of incredible internships over the past two summers."

Judges are needed for about 5 hours on Saturday morning (approximately 8 am to 1pm) and the fair will provide a light breakfast and box lunch. Judges for all categories are needed, but we frequently find a shortage in these areas: Behavioral and Social Sciences, Environmental Science/Engineering, Mechanical Engineering, and Biomedical Engineering.

Judge registration is open NOW—It takes about 2 minutes to register and create a login and another 10 minutes to fill out the rest of the registration that includes questions like:

- Which categories are you interested in judging
- Potential conflicts
- Current employer
- Degree
- If you are willing to judge special awards (often content specific)

The online registration form for judges can be found at:

https://centralsound.stemwizard.com/public_site/judge_register

General information about judging at the fair can be found under the judges tab at:

<https://www.centralsoundfair.org>

Thank you in advance for helping us attract more girls to STEM and cultivate the next generation of STEM leaders!

Our annual Holiday Luncheon was a big success. 36 members and 5 guests celebrated the fellowship of the season with a wonderful meal, fun games and lively conversation. Each table centerpiece was an original design decorated by a member of our branch. Patti Pontikis won the prize for her centerpiece and memorable story behind her decorations. Participants went home with a folded paper star and a glass snowflake ornament.
